Library Diversity and Residency Studies (abbreviated LDRS) is a peer-reviewed journal produced by institutional members of the ACRL Diversity Alliance (<http://www.ala.org/acrl/issues/diversityalliance>). LDRS was created in support of ongoing dissemination goals for information relating to a broad range of diversity efforts in libraries nationwide, with a special focus on library diversity residency programs.

IMLS Acknowledgement: LDRS was created as part of a 2017 grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS Grant RE-95-18-0042-18) entitled the “Library Diversity Institutes Pilot Project”. LDRS acknowledges and thanks IMLS for the financial support that led to this publication. The content of this first issue was generated in the course of the project.
