Annual Ring '59
THE 1959
ANNUAL RING
SCHOOL OF FORESTRY
LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY

The twentieth edition of the ANNUAL RING is dedicated to Professors Martin B. Applequist and Charles B. Briscoe.

Because of their dedication to the forestry profession, research abilities, and willingness to assist the students in any worthwhile cause, they have contributed much to the betterment of the School of Forestry.

The loss of their services will be felt deeply by the School. But our regret at their leaving is tempered by the knowledge that they can render even greater services to forestry in their newly chosen work. In their new undertaking we wish them every success.
This year the staff has worked toward producing an entirely new style of ANNUAL RING. We felt that a top-notch school such as our School of Forestry deserved a yearbook of similar quality. Since this is the twentieth edition of our yearbook, our goal has been to produce a larger and better book in order to keep in stride with the progress being made in our school.

There seem to be just two important things to bring out. First, to thank everyone for their help and cooperation, especially the advertisers, without whom this publication would not have been possible. Second, to say that the purpose of this year's ANNUAL RING is to provide a permanent record of past experiences and fellowships with less emphasis on educational topics that can be found in textbooks and other technical writings.

On behalf of the entire staff, we sincerely hope that everyone will find something of interest or maybe even of some importance within the pages of the 1959 ANNUAL RING.

The value of a man's university degree largely depends on the current standing of his alma mater. Thus each L.S.U. forestry alumnus is vitally concerned with the present condition and relative rating of the School, whether he finished in 1926 or in 56. "How are things down at the Ol' War Skule?" is a query I frequently hear from alumni in my travels.

This past year L.S.U. was Number One in the nation in football. This was fine; we were all thrilled by our team's undefeated and untied record for 1958. But how do we stack up academically? The School's main job is to turn out competent foresters. Are we doing it?

I believe the answer is yes, and that our School of Forestry is academically tops. Where is the proof? It may be that the proof lies in the past and potential accomplishments of our alumni, but this cannot be counted or measured with precision.

Another test of the School's academic rating is available, however. A printed statement was recently released by the Council of the Society of American Foresters, titled "Bases for Accrediting Schools of Forestry." In 1958 the forestry faculty used a grading system to evaluate the School. The grading system takes into account such factors as the institutional status of forestry; the size, duties, and qualifications of the forestry faculty; supporting departments; financial support for forestry; building, library, and laboratory facilities; field instruction; and history of the school.

The analysis showed that the L.S.U. School of Forestry rated particularly high in the number of student credit hours per semester, (2) teaching experience of the faculty, (3) strong supporting departments, (4) building facilities on campus, (5) field laboratories, and (6) history of the school. We found that we were not outstandingly weak in any of the features in the grading system. This is not to say that the School cannot be improved, because we do have some room for improvement. And we are making a continual effort to further strengthen the School.

The 1958 self-evaluation, however, was encouraging to me as Director and to the forestry professors. I feel that our alumni and our students want to share in this encouraging sign of progress at the L.S.U. School of Forestry.

ORGANIZATIONS ...
The L.S.U. Society of Foresters as an organization is dedicated to the promotion of friendship and the development of interest in the profession of forestry.

Regular meetings are held twice monthly with some form of entertainment normally being provided. The society has been very active this year in boosting the guest speaker program with speakers from nationwide, as well as local sources.

Also sponsored by the society are the ANNUAL RING, Field Day, Freshman Orientation, and the Second Annual Conclave.

This has been one of the society's most active and profitable years, may it continue to improve each year.

THE PINETTES . . .

An organization of Forestry wives, the Pinettes hold the distinction of being the group of its kind for wives on the L.S.U. Campus. Organized in 1955 by Mrs. Paul Burns, the purpose of the Pinettes has been to promote fellowship among the wives of the Forestry students.

Mrs. Paul Burns and Mrs. William Hopkins are co-sponsors of the organization.

Monthly meetings at the Forestry Building offer opportunities for the wives to come better acquainted and participate in programs of varied topics such as Forestry, home-making and cosmetic demonstrations.

Highlighting the social activities of the year are an annual Christmas Party and Spring Picnic for the Pinettes, their husbands and faculty members. This year's Christmas Party was a Progressive Dinner held at the homes of faculty members Burns, McDermid and Hopkins.

1958-59, another successful year for the Pinettes!

Established in 1889, Fordyce Lumber Company was early in inaugurating planned forest management. Today, under this firmly established program, it ranks among the state's leading lumber manufacturers and looks forward to continuing operations through the years.

The significance of this outlook to you who seek business opportunities following high school or college is that from time to time we have openings for qualified graduates.

Correspondence invited.

OPPORTUNITY GROWS AND GROWS
IN THE DEEP SOUTH

Louisiana Is No Longer A Backwoods State —
Industry Is Forging Ahead By Leaps And Bounds

When you are thinking of a profession, don't pass-up the opportunities right here in your own state.

LOUISIANA FORESTRY NEEDS PROFESSIONALS

ALLIED INDUSTRIES NEED PROFESSIONALS

STAY SOUTH
YOUNG MAN
STAY SOUTH
A Market Place
for the Southern Wood Crop

The greatest incentive toward good forestry practices is a reliable market for wood. By providing such a market for trees cut from thinnings in young stands and from improved cuttings in older stands, the pulp and paper industry makes possible the practice of good forestry in the South.

To encourage farmers and others to grow trees as a regular crop, International Paper Company has built over one hundred mechanized pulpwood yards throughout the South.
