Library Diversity and Residency Studies (abbreviated LDRS) is a peer-reviewed journal produced by institutional members of the ACRL Diversity Alliance (<http://www.ala.org/acrl/issues/diversityalliance>).

LDRS was created in support of ongoing dissemination goals for information relating to a broad range of diversity efforts in libraries nationwide, with a special focus on library diversity residency programs.

Journal Hosting Acknowledgement: The Editorial Board would like to express its sincere thanks to the Louisiana State University Libraries for their hosting support. Without their assistance, we could not publish the journal.

IMLS Acknowledgement: LDRS was created as part of a 2017 grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS Grant RE-95-18-0042-18) entitled the “Library Diversity Institutes Pilot Project”. LDRS acknowledges and thanks IMLS for the financial support that led to the origination of this publication.
